Central European University Press
Budapest—New York
Following the founding of the Central European University by the Hungarian–American philanthropist George Soros, CEU Press was established in 1993. During the first fifteen years, the publishing program of the Press primarily focused on issues of Central and Eastern Europe, with a special emphasis on the precedents and consequences of transition from communism to democracy and market economy, but as CEU’s academic and social activities have changed to reflect its increasing global engagement, it has had implications for the orientation of the Press as well.

Reflecting the intellectual strengths and values of its parent institution, the Press now publishes books on the political philosophy and practices of open society, history, legal studies, nationalism, media studies, human rights, conflict resolution, gender studies, Jewish studies, economics, medieval studies, literature, international relations, higher education, and public policy.

We operate by standards common to university presses, including peer review and editorial committee approval. Our books are produced regionally and sold internationally, including the most up-to-date distribution channels.

RURAL UNREST DURING THE FIRST RUSSIAN REVOLUTION
KURSK PROVINCE, 1905–1906

BURTON RICHARD MILLER
Research Analyst, New York

ISSN 2306-3637, 410 pages, 2013 (Previously announced)
978-615-5225-17-8 cloth $60.00 / €55.00 / £50.00

The narrative of peasant unrest in Russia during 1905–1906 combines a chronology of incidents drawn from official documents, with close analysis of the villages associated with the disorders based upon detailed census materials compiled by local specialists. The analysis concentrates on a single province: Kursk Oblast. Miller focuses on local events and the rural populations that participated in them.

The volume documents the degree to which the peasant community had been pushed onto the path of change by the end of the 19th century, how much the "peasantry" itself had become increasingly heterogeneous in outlook and occupation, and the rapidity with which these processes had begun to corrode the legitimacy of the older order. The author concludes that unrest was concentrated mostly among peasant communities for whom the benefits of the vital interactions between social unequals that had maintained a fragile social peace in the countryside had been radically eroded.

THE VILLAGE AND THE CLASS WAR
ANTI-KULAK CAMPAIGN IN ESTONIA

ANU MAI KÖLL
Södertörn University, Sweden

ISSN 2306-3637, 280 pages, 2013 (Previously announced)
978-615-5225-14-7 cloth $55.00 / €50.00 / £45.00

Before collectivization of agriculture in Estonia, "kulaks" (better-off farmers) were persecuted and many of them were finally deported in 1949. This book is situated on the local level; the aim is to understand these processes from the perspective of the rural population.

Repression was mainly conducted through a bureaucratic process where denunciations were not even necessary. The main tool was a screening of the rural population with the help of records, censuses and local knowledge, in order to identify, or invent, "kulak families". The World War II history of each individual was a crucial part of screenings. The prisoners of war of the Red Army, held in camps in Estonia, played part in this campaign. Köll portrays the wave of peaceful resistance as the kulak identifications were challenged in 1947–48, so far not addressed in the literature. The results answer the question "how" this process worked, whereas the question "why" finds hypothetical responses in the actors’ life trajectories.
THE BOOK SEEKS TO LINK THEORETICAL DEBATES ON THE RELEVANCE OF TRUST IN ECONOMIC OUTCOMES WITH THE CURRENT ARGUMENTS ABOUT THE ORIGINS AND LESSONS OF THE SUBPRIME CRISIS. BY WHAT MECHANISMS DOES TRUST INFLUENCE ECONOMIC OUTCOMES? UNDER WHAT CONDITIONS DO THESE MECHANISMS PREVAIL? HOW DO DEBATES ABOUT TRUST HELP OUR UNDERSTANDING OF THE SUBPRIME CRISIS IN EUROPE?

BY INTEGRATING INSIGHTS FROM POST-KEYNESIAN, AUSTRIAN AND NEW INSTITUTIONAL ECONOMICS, THE CENTRAL PROPOSITION IS THAT THE PRESENCE OR ABSENCE OF INSTITUTIONAL TRUST CREATES VIRTUOUS AND VICIOUS CYCLES IN LAW-ABIDING, WHICH CRITICALLY IMPACT THE POSSIBILITY FOR ECONOMIC AGENTS TO HAVE REALISTIC LONG-TERM PLANS. IN A LOW-TRUST ENVIRONMENT THE UNCERTAINTY SURROUNDING THE FUNCTIONING OF INSTITUTIONS LEADS TO SHORT-TERM DECISIONS. POLITICAL BUSINESS CYCLES, LAX REGULATIONS ON CREDIT AND BOOM-BUST CYCLES ARE TYPICAL OF SUCH AN ENVIRONMENT. WHILE EMPIRICAL EVIDENCE FROM THE EUROPEAN UNION LARGELY SUPPORTS THESE PROPOSITIONS, EXCEPTIONS ARE ALSO IDENTIFIED.

BOKROS, A FRONTLINE ACTOR OF POST-COMMUNIST ECONOMIC TRANSITION, DOES NOT DENY THE FAILURES, SHORTCOMINGS OR IMPERFECTIONS OF MARKET ECONOMY AND DEMOCRACY. NOR DOES HE TAKE THE SURVIVAL OF MARKET CAPITALISM AND LIBERAL DEMOCRACY FOR GRANTED. BY HIGHLIGHTING THE VALIANT AND PAINFUL PROCESS OF TRANSITION AND ATTEMPTING TO UNDERSTAND ITS ECONOMICS AND CULTURE, HE SEeks TO CONTRIBUTE TO THE THEORETICAL (ACADEMIC) AND PRACTICAL (POLITICAL) DEFENSE OF WESTERN CIVILIZATION.
DEMOGRAPHIC AVANT-GARDE
JEWS IN BOHEMIA BETWEEN ENLIGHTENMENT AND SHOAH

JANA VOBECKÁ
Vienna Institute of Demography, Austrian Academy of Sciences

This book studies the unique demographic behavior of Jews in Bohemia (the historic name of the western part of the Czech lands), starting from a moment in history when industrialization in Central Europe was still far away in the future, and when Jews were still living legally restricted lives in segregated ghettos. From the 18th century onwards, Jews developed patterns of decreasing mortality and fertility that was not observed among the gentile majority in Bohemia, patterns which established them as the demographic avant-garde population in all of Europe.

Demographic Avant-garde elucidates what made Jews in Bohemia true forerunners of the demographic transition and why this occurred when it did. It scrutinizes demographic statistics from the mid-eighteenth to the mid-twentieth century, and examines what made Bohemian Jews’ data distinct from the trends observed in the gentile community and among Jews in other lands. In search for the answers, Vobecká’s analysis touches upon the cultural, social, political and economic environment.

THE COLLECTIVIZATION OF AGRICULTURE IN COMMUNIST EASTERN EUROPE
COMPARISON AND ENTANGLEMENTS

EDITED BY
CONSTANTIN IORDACHI, Central European University, Budapest
ARND BAUERKÄMPER, Freie Universität, Berlin

The volume offers a complex comparative overview of the collectivization process in Eastern Europe after World War II. Despite its profound implications, the subject has remained a relatively under-researched field. In order to understand the post-communist transformation of Eastern European societies, scholars need to pay attention to the status and evolution of the peasantry and to employ a historical perspective, by exploring the communist agricultural policies and their enduring implications. The book explores the interrelated collectivization of the agriculture in USSR and in the communist dictatorships established in the Soviet-dominated Eastern Europe.

Although the essays focus on case studies, they address a unitary set of analytical issues, relating to: 1) the Soviet “model” and its emulation in Eastern Europe; 2) spatial differences in the collectivization campaigns, particularly with regard to the relationship between center and peripheral regions; 3) the dynamics of collectivization in rural societies; and 4) types of collectivization and socialist agricultural systems.

HOT BOOKS IN THE COLD WAR
THE CIA-FUNDED SECRET WESTERN BOOK DISTRIBUTION PROGRAM BEHIND THE IRON CURTAIN

ALFRED A. REISCH
Former Senior Political Analyst, Radio Free Europe, New York

This study reveals the hidden story of the secret book distribution program to Eastern Europe financed by the CIA during the Cold War. At its height between 1957 and 1970, the book program was one of the least known but one of the most effective methods of penetrating the Iron Curtain. It reached thousands of intellectuals and professionals in the Soviet Bloc, acquainting them with analyses of Western economies, trade unionism, social science, human rights, modern capitalism, Western socialism etc. Reisch conducted thorough research on the key personalities involved in the program, especially the two key figures: S. S. Walker, who initiated the idea of a “mailing project,” and G. C. Minden, who developed it into one of the most effective political and psychological tools of the Cold War.

The book includes chapters on the vagaries of censorship and interception of books by communist authorities based on personal letters and accounts from recipients of Western material. It stands as a testimony in honor of the handful of imaginative, and determined individuals who helped to free half of Europe from mental bondage, and planted many of the seeds that germinated when communism collapsed and the Soviet bloc disintegrated.

THE INAUGURATION OF ORGANIZED POLITICAL WARFARE
COLD WAR ORGANIZATIONS SPONSORED BY THE NATIONAL COMMITTEE FOR A FREE EUROPE / FREE EUROPE COMMITTEE

EDITED BY
KATALIN KÁDÁR LYNN, Independent scholar, Trustee of the American Hungarian Library and Historical Society of New York City

The National Committee for a Free Europe – which at one point changed its name to Free Europe Committee – was a US government sponsored organization between 1949 and 1971. Its mission was to wage “organized political warfare” against Soviet Expansionism, with Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty as the two best known divisions. The NCFE and its anti-communist campaign remains one of the last aspects of U.S. Cold War policy, and Cold War scholarship will not be complete until this history is made available.

The essays in this book discuss the Bulgarian, Czechoslovakian, Hungarian, Polish, Romanian and Baltic States national committees, which were formed to lead the propaganda battle against the growth of worldwide communism, and which represented the U.S.-based exile leadership of those satellite nations. The primary sources of this research were the records of the two radios, acquired by the Hoover Institution Archives at Stanford University in 2000.

This is a Helena History Press publication, distributed by CEU Press.
SAINTS’ LIVES HAVE GAINED RECOGNITION AS A GOLDMINE OF INFORMATION ON SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC HISTORY, HISTORY OF MENTALITIES AND EVERYDAY LIFE AND, ABOVE ALL, AS THE GENRE OF CRUCIAL IMPORTANCE WITHIN MEDIEVAL LITERATURE.

The seventh volume in the Central European Medieval Texts series contains lives of saints in the latest critical edition of the Latin original and their first English translation: Saint Stephen (King of Hungary), Saint Gerard, Saint Emeric (Hungarian Prince), Saint John of Trogir, Saint Stanislas, Saint Ladislas (King of Hungary), and Saint Procopius.

In the 11th–13th centuries in the newly christianized countries (Bohemia, Poland, Hungary and Dalmatia) political leaders dominated the list of newly canonized saints, as opposed to the pious proselytizers of the previous period. (The hagiographical narratives of the latter were published in the preceding volume of the series.) Prefaces to each “vita” discuss the textual tradition. In an appendix the extensive hagiographical literature of the saints is being critically surveyed.

As the first volume of a new CEU Press series, this book studies the history and hermeneutics of Holy Scriptures when book printing started to influence the dissemination of knowledge in the Orthodox-Christian and the Muslim world. The printing of these texts cannot be considered as mere technical innovation of reproduction. Since printing required special knowledge and allowed a much wider circulation, it triggered a debate among the religious elites and in their societies about fundamental dilemmas. Who is allowed to have access to Holy Scriptures? What does it mean that people not belonging to the religious elite will be able to read sacred texts? If a broad circulation is technically feasible, why should not texts in the canon be printed in the language of the people? How does the “production of meaning” of a sacred text change if it is circulated by means of print?

The essays give insight into changes in the democratization of knowledge, religious elites undergoing changes, and the secularization of traditions in Romania, Egypt, Russia, India, Croatia, East and West Bengal, as well as among the Assyrians of the Middle East.
Religious history has experienced an exciting revival over the past few years, with new methodological and theoretical approaches invigorating the field. This book explores the influence of the Christian churches in Eastern Europe's social, cultural, and political history. Drawing upon archival sources, the work fills a vacuum as few scholars have systematically explored the history of Christianity in the region.

The essays challenge readers with questions like: Is secularization a useful concept in understanding the long-term dynamics of religiosity in Eastern Europe? Is the picture of oppression and resistance an accurate way to characterize religious life under communism, or did Christians and communists find ways to co-exist on the local level prior to 1989? What role did Christians actually play in dissident movements under communism? And finally: what does the study of Eastern Europe contribute to the broader study of modern Christian history, and what can we learn from the interpretative problems that arise, uniquely, from this region?
NEW BOOKS & BACKLIST  2013 SPRING/SUMMER

LIVING THE HIGH LIFE IN MINSK
RUSSIAN ENERGY RENTS, DOMESTIC POPULISM AND BELARUS' IMPENDING CRISIS
MARGARITA M. BLMACEDA
220 pages, 2013  978-615-5225-19-2  cloth  $50.00 / €45.00 / £40.00

This book is an attempt to understand the role of energy relations, policies, and discourses in the maintenance of Lukashenka's power in Belarus. In the process of doing so, the book also sheds new light on understanding Belarus' political development and, more generally, sources of stability and instability in post-Soviet authoritarian states and authoritarian states as a whole.

TRANSITION IN POST-SOVIET ART
COLLECTIVE ACTIONS BEFORE AND AFTER 1989
OCTAVIAN ESANU
330 pages, 2013  978-615-5225-11-6  cloth  $55.00 / €50.00 / £45.00

This book presents a well-researched narrative of the transformations that Eastern European art has undergone since the demise of communism. These transformations are demonstrated by the example of the Moscow-based conceptual artist group called Collective Actions. This study helps the reader to understand the fate of the artistic imagination in one of the most ideologically charged moments of the twentieth century.

KEY-CONCEPTS OF ROMANIAN HISTORY
ALTERNATIVE APPROACHES TO SOCIO-POLITICAL LANGUAGES
EDITED BY VICTOR NEUMANN, ARMIN HEINEN
510 pages, 2013  978-615-5225-16-1  cloth  $70.00 / €65.00 / £60.00

This is a collection of studies that focuses on the concepts that have shaped Romanian cultural and political identity. It analyzes the dominant ideologies of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries as well as their socio-political impact, and discusses the formation of the Romanian national state and its transition towards modernity by means of concepts such as patriotism, ethno-culture, property, and constitution.

THE POWER OF WORDS
STUDIES ON CHARMS AND CHARMING IN EUROPE
EDITED BY JAMES A. KAPALÓ, ÉVA PÓCS, WILLIAM FRANCIS RYAN
250 pages, 2013  978-615-5225-10-9  cloth  $55.00 / €50.00 / £45.00

The essays reflect the rich textual tradition of archives, monasteries and literary sources, as well as the texts still accessible through field work in many rural areas of Europe and known from the living practice of healers in local communities, and even of priests. The authors include representatives of folklore studies, contemporary and historical anthropology, as well as linguistics, the study of Classical Antiquity, mediaeval, Byzantine, Russian, and Baltic studies.

TURNING TRADITIONS UPSIDE DOWN
RETHINKING GIORDANO BRUNO’S “ENLIGHTENMENT”
EDITED BY ANNE EUSTERSCHULTE, HENNING HUFNAGEL
280 pages, 2013  978-615-5053-63-4  cloth  $50.00 / €45.00 / £40.00

A non-conformist at the dawn of an epoch, a martyr of modernity, or just a polemic controvert? Giordano Bruno is known today as an exceptional, yet ambivalent figure within the history of ideas. Some of the world’s most eminent researchers on Bruno offer an exhaustive overview of the state-of-the-art research on his work, discussing his methodological procedures, his literary practices, his natural philosophy, or his role as theologian and metaphysic at the cutting-edge of their disciplines.
GLOBALIZING TORTURE
CIA SECRET DETENTION AND EXTRAORDINARY RENDITION

OPEN SOCIETY JUSTICE INITIATIVE

This report, written by Amrit Singh, focuses on the human rights abuses associated with the CIA’s post-September 11, 2001 secret detention and extraordinary rendition operations. It documents the secret detention of detainees in CIA custody outside the United States, and the extraordinary detention of detainees—without meaningful legal process—to the custody of foreign governments for the purposes of detention and interrogation, often in the face of a real risk of being tortured.

The book provides, for the first time anywhere, the most comprehensive account of the human rights abuses committed by the US Central Intelligence Agency in "war on terror." It identifies 138 victims of illegal detention and extraordinary rendition and describes in searing detail the abuses they suffered. It also identifies 54 foreign governments that collaborated with the United States in these illegal practices. Includes recommendations for addressing similar human rights abuses.

REDUCING ETHNIC PROFILING IN THE EUROPEAN UNION
A HANDBOOK OF GOOD PRACTICES

OPEN SOCIETY JUSTICE INITIATIVE

Ethnic profiling by police in Europe is a widespread form of discrimination that violates basic human rights norms. Ethnic profiling is also inefficient: it leads police to focus on racial and ethnic traits rather than genuine indicators of suspicion, and results in stopping and searching large numbers of innocent people. Fortunately, better alternatives exist—approaches to policing that are fairer and more effective. This handbook documents those approaches and offers guidance to help cut down on discrimination and increase police efficacy.

The book, written by Rachel Neild, senior advisor on ethnic profiling and police reform, provides diagnostic questions, field-tested ideas for reform, and proven models of good practice for reducing ethnic profiling. It is intended to help police officers, law enforcement agencies, civil society organizations, and community representatives better understand the dynamics and costs of ethnic profiling, and aid them in developing new partnerships, policies, and practices to address the problem. The nearly 100 case studies show that efforts to address ethnic profiling can succeed.
INTERNATIONAL DEBATE EDUCATION ASSOCIATION—IDEA

Across the globe, IDEA (the International Debate Education Association – http://idebate.org) strives to foster an engaged, democratic citizenry by offering young people the opportunity to research and discuss important issues critical to their lives, to their community, to their very future. IDEA coordinates the activities of a network of local non-governmental organizations that promote the free exchange of ideas, tolerance, and international cooperation.

Idebate Press is IDEA’s publishing arm. It publishes books for middle and high school students, their teachers, and for the general reader on debate, debating styles, rhetoric, and critical thinking, and on subjects of particular interest to youth and of relevance to youth’s role in society.

HUMAN RIGHTS POST 9/11
EDITED BY
BETHANY BARRATT, Roosevelt University, Chicago

Human Rights Post 9/11 draws on the insights of top scholars in law, political science, and philosophy from across the international community to explore four broad questions: • How have definitions of warfare and the legal and philosophical restraints on violence that have emerged around war changed since 9/11? • What are the broader implications of these changes for international human rights law? • To what extent have these changes altered domestic human rights practices? • What can we predict about the future of the international human rights regime? Thematic sections address: • 9/11 and changing definitions of warfare • 9/11’s impact on international law • The relationship between freedom from terror and other human rights • Human rights and international organization since 9/11.

ADJUDICATION
ESSAYS ON THE PHILOSOPHY, PRACTICE, AND PEDAGOGY OF JUDGING BRITISH PARLIAMENTARY DEBATE
EDITED BY
NICK BIBBY, London Debating Hub
SAM BLOCK, chief adjudicator of Manila Worlds (2011)
STEVE LLANO, St. John’s University in New York City

224 pages, 2013 978-1-61770-067-5 paperback $27.95 / €25.95 / £23.99

Adjudication is a collection of essays reflecting on various aspects of the role of adjudicators in competitive debate. Although its focus is competitive debate in the British Parliamentary format, it contains insights and reflections that should be of use to any adjudicator, coach or debater. It discusses contemporary challenges in adjudication in terms of both the general theory underlying the role, its use as an educational tool, and some of the very real and practical issues facing judges.

ESSENTIAL READINGS ON RHETORIC

Essential Readings on Rhetoric offers a compendium of key primary works related to the study of rhetoric. Tracing the expositions on rhetoric from Ancient Greece and Rome, the Middle Ages, and a brief examination of contemporary rhetorical thought, Essential Readings on Rhetoric explores the main thinkers and ideas behind the classical discipline of rhetoric. It includes chapters on: Rhetoric in Ancient Greece & Rome; Rhetoric in the Middle Ages; Rhetoric in the Enlightenment era; Rhetoric in the contemporary era.
MAKING CIVICS RELEVANT, MAKING CITIZENS EFFECTIVE
ACTION CIVICS IN THE CLASSROOM

DANIEL MILLENSON, Generation Citizen, USA
MOLLY MILLENSON, Generation Citizen, USA
SARAH ANDES, Generation Citizen, USA

192 pages, 2013 978-1-61770-068-2 paperback $27.95 / €25.95 / £23.99

Making Civics Relevant, Making Citizens Effective is designed to help secondary social studies and civics teachers bring an innovative, student-centered approach to the classroom that provides students with a framework for effective civic participation. The lesson plans in this book guide students through the process of selecting a community issue of concern and creating and implementing a plan of action. The Common Core-aligned curriculum enables student to develop and practice “21st century skills” such as oral and written persuasion, group collaboration, and critical analysis. Each lesson in the volume contains an introduction, clear steps to present and implement the material, relevant student handouts, and, where applicable, formative assessments/exit tickets. The book also contains a portfolio-based method of assessment, with summative assessments for the various units and opportunities to showcase student work.

DEBATE AND DIALOGUE IN CORRECTIONAL SETTINGS
MAPS, MODELS, AND MATERIALS

JOHANNES WHEELDON, Washington State University
RICARDO B. CHAVEZ, Walla Walla Community College at Coyote Ridge Corrections Center
JOE COOKE, Walla Walla Community College at Coyote Ridge Corrections Center

64 pages, 8.5” x 11”, 2013 978-1-61770-070-5 paperback $9.95 / €7.50 / £6.99

Debate and Dialogue in Correctional Settings describes how debate can be integrated into existing classroom activities. It offers a new model for debate that emphasizes respectful dialogue, acknowledging counter evidence, and audience participation to facilitate meaningful learning. The model makes extensive use of diagrams, idea maps, and other visual approaches. The DDD model also promotes a range of practical skills, including critical thinking skills, associated more broadly with learning. Perhaps of most utility is the inherent flexibility of the model in meeting the needs of different instructors and classrooms.

MIGRATION, HUMAN RIGHTS, AND DEVELOPMENT
A GLOBAL ANTHOLOGY

EDITED BY
ANNE GALLAGHER, lawyer and scholar

This anthology presents a unique collection of the best, most accessible, and most important writing in the area of migration—with a particular focus on the human rights and development aspects of modern migration trends and responses. Thematic sections address: 1) the relationship and connections between human rights, migration, and development; 2) key issues in migration and development, including impacts on source and destination countries, social costs, and the role of remittances; 3) key issues in migration and human rights: the legal and policy framework and rights of specific migrant groups including refugees, children, and women; 4) the future of migration. Is migration always a good? Can restrictions be justified? How do we address the very real challenges of global migration while preserving rights and promoting development?
RELIGION AS AN ISSUE IN POLITICS
EDITED BY
NUKHET A. SANDAL, Brown University

The volume covers various aspects of world politics in which religion has been influential, especially since the end of the Cold War. Since that time, religious political parties have become more vocal and ethno-religious conflicts with worldwide ramifications have taken their place in foreign policy agendas of states. Even in secular contexts, debates surrounding health, environment, and human rights now include a religious dimension. The collection of essays from prominent scholars probes the much debated relationship between religion and politics in multiple contexts including Africa, Latin America, East Asia, Western Europe, and the Middle East.

Thematic sections address: 1) religion, state, and identity crises 2) religion, peace, and international norms 3) religion, governance, and foreign policymaking 4) religion, democracy, and human rights 5) religion and development.

RELIGIOUS ACTORS IN WORLD POLITICS
EDITED BY
NUKHET A. SANDAL, Brown University

Religious actors have become increasingly visible in the 21st century public sphere. Religious groups, political parties, and states are at the forefront of the heated debates surrounding governance, security, and economics. They have a wide range of goals and they employ diverse instruments, and policymakers recognize the importance of becoming familiar with and, in certain cases, working with religious actors. This volume takes a closer look at the involvement of religious actors in world politics, recognizing both the challenges and opportunities their participation entails. Essays cover religious political parties and local religious organizations, religious states, violent religious actors, and transnational religious networks in multiple contexts ranging from Latin America to Eastern Europe.

CEU PRESS STUDIES IN THE HISTORY OF MEDICINE

The history of medicine is currently undergoing a remarkable historiographic transformation, one which this book series attempts to capture and disseminate among a wider audience. The series strives to not merely offer original and timely research on neglected national case studies in Europe, but to redefine and diversify the overarching debates on the particularly turbulent periods of modern history during the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.
